Find your pace. Find your people.

SportsGang helps Sydney runners and golfers find people who suit their pace or their game — then agree a time in chat and keep every plan in one place.

RUNNING

Run at your pace — or just for the company.

Tell SportsGang the distances, times and group style you like, and either your comfortable pace or that you would rather keep it social. A card only claims a fit your stated preferences support, and says plainly when something is unknown.

✓ See where your paces overlap

Share the range you are comfortable at and a card shows exactly where it meets theirs, like "Pace ranges overlap at 5:45–6:15 /km". Turn on Matching pace only to see just those runners.

✓ Social running counts too

Prefer company to split times? Choose social running and skip the pace. Your profile says "Social — pace is flexible".

✓ No guessing

Not everyone shares a pace. When someone hasn't, their card says "Hasn't shared a pace range" instead of assuming one.

✓ Group runs

Host a run with a time, a meeting point and a number of spots, or join one while spots are left.

SportsGang doesn't track your runs or record routes. It helps you find people and agree when and where to meet.

GOLF

Golfers who suit your game.

Add your handicap situation — an official handicap, your own estimate, or none — with your experience, 9 or 18 holes, and the golfers you want to play with.

Similar level

Learn from experienced golfers

Happy to play with beginners

Any level

✓ Similar level, explained

Two handicaps are compared within the gap you choose. Without two handicaps to compare, the card says it matched on experience instead.

✓ Honest about handicaps

Handicaps are self-reported, not verified, and an estimate is labelled as one. You can also play with no handicap at all.

✓ Learning, with consent

If you want to learn, you see more experienced golfers only when they have said they are happy to play with beginners or open to any level. Not every experienced golfer has.

✓ Group rounds

Host a round for two to four golfers with a course and tee time, or join one while spots are left. The host says whether the tee time is secured or still being booked.

SportsGang doesn't book courses or tee times, and doesn't offer coaching. It helps you find golfers and agree when to play.

Planning to book

From a good fit to a plan you both agreed.

Five clear steps. A chat needs you both, and a session needs a yes.

1

Set your preferences

Choose running, golf or both. Runners add a pace range or choose social running, plus distances and times. Golfers add their handicap situation, experience, holes and who they want to play with.

2

Show interest

Browse people whose preferences fit yours, with the reasons on every card. Interest is private.

3

Chat when it's mutual

A chat opens only when you both show interest. That is where you work out the details.

4

Propose a session

Suggest a time and place from the chat. They confirm or decline, and until then it stays pending.

5

See it in My Plans

Confirmed sessions, pending proposals and the group runs and rounds you host or join, in Sydney time.

Prefer a group? Join a run or round in Explore while spots are left, or host one. There is no group chat: the host sets the time, place and number of spots, and joining adds it to My Plans.

MY PLANS

Every plan in one place.

One-to-one sessions and group runs and rounds sit together, in Sydney time, so you always know what is on and what is still waiting for an answer.

Upcoming

Confirmed 1:1 sessions, and the group runs and rounds you host or have joined.

Pending

Proposals still waiting on someone. They are never shown as confirmed.

Past

Completed, cancelled and declined plans, so your history stays out of the way.

FAQ

Straight answers.

Where can I get SportsGang?

SportsGang is an iPhone app on the App Store (<https://apps.apple.com/au/app/sportsgang/id6767027447>). It is built for Sydney first, and times in the app are Sydney time.

Is the running and golf experience already in the app?

It arrives with the next SportsGang update. The version on the App Store today is an earlier release that works differently, so features on this page such as pace ranges, golf partner preferences and My Plans come with that update.

Do I have to share my pace or my handicap?

No. Runners can choose social running instead of a pace range, and golfers can say they have no handicap. Cards say so plainly when something hasn't been shared, instead of guessing.

Are handicaps verified?

No. Handicaps are self-reported and not verified, and an estimate is labelled as an estimate.

Will beginners be matched with experienced golfers?

Only with golfers who have said they are happy to play with beginners or are open to any level. Experienced golfers who haven't said so are not shown to someone who wants to learn.

Can anyone message me?

No. A one-to-one chat opens only when you both show interest. Group runs and rounds don't have a group chat; joining one adds it to My Plans.

Does SportsGang book tee times, track runs or offer coaching?

No. SportsGang doesn't book courses or tee times, doesn't track runs or record routes, and doesn't provide coaching. It helps you find people and agree a time and place.

What if someone makes me uncomfortable?

Report or block them from a chat or their profile. Once blocked, neither of you can message, propose a session or show interest, and you won't see each other in Explore.

Is this a dating app?

No. SportsGang is for finding people to run or play golf with, around a session you both agree on.

Where are the privacy policy, terms and support?

Read the Privacy Policy (<https://sportgang.netlify.app/privacy/>), Terms of Service (<https://sportgang.netlify.app/terms/>) and Support (<https://sportgang.netlify.app/support/>) pages.

Your next run or round, with the right people.

Set your preferences, show interest, and plan the session in chat.
Everything you agree lands in My Plans.
